ABSTRACT

In India, there is a strong preference for the male child as sons are perceived to be future bread-earners and also the old age security for parents. A girl child faces discrimination from birth till death. They were not allowed to have a share in the property of their parents. There is systematic discrimination against women economically and socially and therefore empowerment of women is the only panacea to this problem. The Government of India has made several enactments like Dowry Prohibition Act 1961 from time to time to address the problem of discrimination against the women.
