REVIEW OF THE ARTICLE

Positive Perception: A Glance Towards Positive Change

Mrs. Amrapali Amit Dumbre¹ and Dr. Devanand Shinde²

ABSTRACT:

The problem statement was clear and well articulated It is a request for you as parent. Please change Aryan's school" Teacher narrated this sentence to the parents during individual interaction. The parents were numbed after hearing her words. Aryan's parents took this interaction casually but from inside they had got collapsed, nervous and were feeling stressed. The continuous thought started hindering them was that, "Why only my child?" They were under confusion and thought, "What decision they should take???"

INTRODUCTION:

The introduction provides a good, generalized background of the topic that quickly gives the reader an appreciation Teacher said "Aryan is a good boy otherwise socialized and intelligent. But when it comes to writing, it becomes difficult for us to read his hand writing." His handwriting is poor. When we ask him orally he can answer well but we find it too difficult to read his hand writing. You cannot read a single word written by him. His handwriting looks untidy and shabby. The teacher showed his books to his parents and they were speechless. There were list of complaints delivered by the class teacher to the parents about his writing. Parents with locked hands were listening to her talk. She conveyed that his handwriting is terrible. The letters are not at all readable and it is difficult to make them out. There is no proper space between two letters, within word and between two words.

METHODOLOGY:

Author has not mentioned any specific methodology. This study was descriptive in nature. Must add methodology in your article. Methodology used to per research topic.

PRESENTATION OF RESULTS:

Must add result in your article.

A Good Result: -

Results are as per aims and objective and useful to further research.

REFERENCES:

Prior publication by the author(s) of substantial portions of the data or study was appropriately acknowledged.

RELEVANCE:

The paper is properly organized and demands appreciation. I think the paper will satisfy the interest of the readers.
